From the President

As my term as President of Dogs For Life's Board of Directors draws to a close, I can't help but reflect on the years since my wife Gail and I, with our Airedales Sassy and Rusty, first joined the DFL community as dog park members in 1999.

Gail and I are long-time supporters of Airedale Rescue. We immediately saw the value in having an off-leash park for dogs to play in a safe, controlled environment. Around the same time, I joined the DFL's Dog Park Committee. Gail and I later donated the park's Memorial Pavilion in remembrance of Rusty and all the Airedales we rescued over the years.

I believe it's important to be active in organizations whose causes you feel passionate about so that they continue to thrive and will be accessible to future generations. When I joined the Dog Park Committee, I wasn't looking for a place on DFL's Board of Directors. I sought just a small way to give back to the DFL community. As it turns out, that was the beginning of my long - and continuing - relationship with DFL. This is not an uncommon story; in fact, DFL looks to develop its most engaged volunteers into DFL Board members.

I'm very proud of all the milestones DFL has achieved since opening the first off-leash dog park in Indian River County. With its highly qualified board members, talented staff members, and dedicated volunteers, I have no doubt DFL will continue to add to its impressive list of accomplishments.

I'll no longer be President of the DFL Board, but I'm committed to staying involved with DFL in different capacities, and I hope you will too. I'm looking forward to seeing you all at the dog park.

Puppyraising

Pilot Mode: Engaged!

Welcome “Pilot,” Dogs For Life’s newest service pup in training! Aptly named, Pilot was donated to DFL by Pilot Dogs, based in Columbus, Ohio. Like DFL, Pilot Dogs is an Assistance Dogs International (ADI)-accredited organization and member of the ADI Breeding Cooperative. In 2025, American Airlines launched a partnership program with ADI allowing staff or volunteers representing ADI members to transport service dogs, provided they meet certain requirements. DFL volunteers Meg and Don Peterson (USA Ret.) flew to Ohio to bring Pilot home to Florida. Despite lengthy travel delays, Pilot did great on both of his flights. Pilot initially will make his home with our resident expert puppy raiser Cheryl Marshall (USAF Ret.).

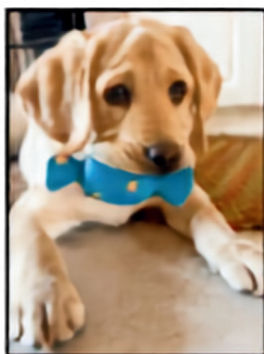

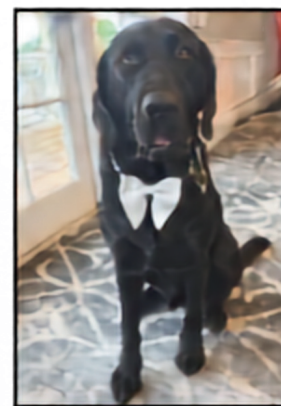

Clockwise: Pilot gets a clean bill of health at Live Oak Animal Hospital, and Pilot playing (top) and napping during his trip to Florida.

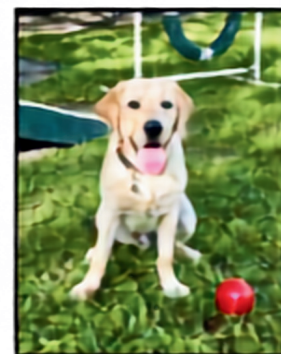

Pupdates: Then & Now Rocket & Chief

Rocket is ready for his match! Rocket came to DFL two years ago. He has successfully completed five levels of training, including balance task work and public access obedience, and passed his canine good citizenship test with flying colors. Currently the oldest of DFL’s service pups in training, he takes his senior position very seriously. When he’s not thinking deep thoughts, you’ll find him in the dog park supervising the younger dogs.

Chief came to DFL last winter. Just a baby then, he has come a long way! He is still under a year old and was the youngest of DFL’s service pups in training until our newest pup, Pilot, arrived. Chief is a quick learner. He is a natural retriever, so his focus has been on mobility tasks. When not clowning around in the dog park with his friends, you’ll find him attending obedience classes at DFL.

What Can I Do Now?

How Connection, Purpose, and Action Help Veterans Move Forward

For the past seven years, I have had the privilege of facilitating the PTSD support group for veterans at Dogs For Life. As the organization's Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) therapist, I have witnessed the profound impact that connection, understanding, and purposeful action can have on veterans living with the effects of trauma.

happens, it is easy to become trapped between the pain of the past and the fear of the future.

Action interrupts that cycle. We regularly return to three simple principles: Focus on what you can control. Come back to the present moment. Ask yourself, "What can I do now?" The question does not require a perfect solution. It simply asks for the next right action.

Post-traumatic stress does not always look the way people expect it to. It may appear as anger, isolation, sleeplessness, hypervigilance, anxiety, depression, or difficulty trusting others. Some veterans carry memories they cannot forget. Others carry a persistent sense that the world is no longer as safe or predictable as it once seemed. Many also carry heavy hearts, private burdens, and daily struggles that can be difficult to explain to those who have not walked a similar path.

When veterans gather with others who understand the weight of these experiences, they do not have to explain every detail or defend every reaction. They can speak honestly, listen without judgment, share a laugh, sit quietly, or simply be present. There is comfort in knowing that you are not the only one fighting a battle that others may not see.

The group provides more than a place to talk about hardship. It offers community. Healing rarely happens in isolation. It grows through connection—with other people, with a service dog, with the present moment, and with a renewed sense of purpose. Over the years, I have watched veterans encourage one another, challenge one another, and remind each other of strengths they may have temporarily forgotten.

The challenges do not magically disappear. The past cannot be changed, and life does not suddenly become easy. What can change is how a veteran responds to the moment directly in front of them. That idea has become one of the most prominent themes of our group: Action is the key.

Trauma often leaves people feeling powerless. The mind may replay what happened, anticipate what could go wrong, or focus on everything that cannot be controlled. When that

Maybe the action is getting out of bed, taking the dog for a walk, calling another veteran, attending the group, keeping a medical appointment, or having an honest conversation with a loved one. It might be practicing a coping skill, completing a task that has been avoided, helping someone else, or taking a few slow breaths before reacting.

These actions may appear small, but small actions accumulate. They create momentum. They restore a sense of agency and remind veterans that although they may not control everything that has happened—or everything happening around them—they can still choose their next move. That choice matters.

Purpose also plays an essential role in the group. Many veterans are accustomed to serving, contributing, and being part of something larger than themselves. When military service ends, that identity and sense of mission can become difficult to replace.

Dogs For Life helps create a new kind of mission: caring for a dog, supporting fellow veterans, participating in the community, and continuing to move forward despite the weight of the past. A service dog can provide companionship, grounding, structure, and a reason to reengage with the world.

Seven years into this journey, I remain deeply honored to sit alongside these veterans and witness their courage. They continually demonstrate that strength is not the absence of struggle. Sometimes, strength is simply refusing to stop moving forward.

When the road feels too long, the burden feels too heavy, or the future feels uncertain, we return to the question that has guided so much of our work: What can I do now? Then, we take the next step. Because action is the key.

Better Together!

Celebrating DFL's "Unsung Heroes"

IRC Sheriff Eric Flowers

Dogs For Life celebrated International Assistance Dog Week (IADW) with a special event at Pointe West Country Club on August 4, 2026, to honor the “unsung heroes” that make DFL’s mission successful. The theme of this year’s event was “Better Together.”

As the saying goes, it takes a village. This is especially true in the context of raising and training service dogs for veterans, first responders, and others in need.

Behind every successful DFL service dog team are countless DFL staff members, volunteers, trainers, puppy raisers, and of course the donors who make DFL’s mission a reality. This event recognized and celebrated all the members of the DFL community that work hard – not only during IADW, but all year long – to produce DFL’s impeccable service dogs and successful service dog teams.

Eric Flowers, Indian River County Sheriff, delivered the keynote speech at the event. He spoke about how the IRCISO’s certified service and therapy dogs help members of his staff and the local community.

Sheriff Flowers emphasized that it takes many people behind the scenes to produce successful service dogs. He echoed Shelly Ferger’s remarks by expressing gratitude for everyone involved in the DFL community!

American Legion Post 39 Riders

The American Legion Post 39 Riders held a Poker Run to benefit Dogs For Life on June 27, 2026. On the morning of the event, DFL Founder and CEO Shelly Ferger gave the Riders a tour of the training center and introduced them to service dogs in training Rocket, Genie, and Chief.

Members of American Legion Post 39 Riders, including DFL Board member Rick Lewis (USN) (center, in sunglasses) stopped to visit DFL's training center during their Poker Run.

American Legion Post 39 Riders Director Johnny Duncan presented the proceeds of the Poker Run to DFL CEO Shelly Ferger.

Bike Night at Willee's Pizza

Willee's Pizza in Vero Beach held Bike Night on July 25, 2026 to raise money for Dogs For Life. The event included food, raffles, entertainment, and visits from certified service dog teams and DFL dogs in training. DFL appreciates the support from Willee's Pizza and suggests that anyone in search of excellent pizza check out Willee's!

Treasure Coast Quilts for Veterans

Treasure Coast Quilts for Veterans presented handmade Quilts of Valor to recent veteran and first responder graduates of DFL's service dog training program at a heartwarming ceremony held June 13, 2026. Each hero and his or her service dog received their own unique quilt, which was specially made for them. Quilt recipients spoke of how DFL has helped them overcome challenges and navigate life after their service. Their stories were a powerful reminder of the impact of service animals and support programs on the lives of those who risk their own to protect and defend us.

Graduates John Wagner (USMC) and Freya, Juan Soto (USA) and Antonella, Rosemary Aquino (First Responder) and Yogi, and Steve Flynn (USA) and Rigby proudly wear their quilts alongside Treasure Coast Quilts for Veterans representatives Flora Newhouse (in red) and Devon Williams (in white).

Dog CPR Training

Dog park members and clients packed the training center in June to learn skills that could save their dog's life. The class combined hands-on practice of CPR and first aid techniques.

Head, Heart and Hands of Indian River Club

Dogs For Life is grateful to be a 2026 grant recipient of Head, Heart and Hands of Indian River Club. DFL was honored to be recognized along with other local grantees for improving the lives of fellow Indian River County residents. We appreciate HHH's continued support.

American Legion Post 40

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 40 invited Dogs For Life representatives to speak at their meeting on August 10, 2026. Representatives presented information about DFL and answered members' questions about DFL's programs for veterans. Terry Knorrston, VA&R Committee Chairman, on behalf of Unit 40's Members and Friends, presented DFL with crocheted lap robes to be gifted to veteran clients of DFL. The lap robes were handmade with love by a member or a homebound friend of the Auxiliary. The Auxiliary also voted to donate a portion of the proceeds from their upcoming Quarter Auction to DFL. DFL is very grateful for the Auxiliary's support.

Agility Yard Improvements: Lab Tested & Approved!

Harry Taylor with Gage as a puppy

Have you seen the updates in the agility yard? There's a brand new hoop and tunnel for the dogs, and some of the existing agility equipment has been freshly painted. Dog park members will notice a new bench for relaxing at the east end of the yard.

Dogs For Life service dogs in training, Rocket, Genie, and Chief, couldn't wait to break in the new agility equipment. Their verdict? Four paws up!

Thanks to Harry Taylor and DFL Board President Eddie Boatwright for making these improvements for both our two- and four-legged members to enjoy.

Service Dog Re-Certifications

DFL annually re-certifies every one of our service dog teams. As part of our Assistance Dogs International (ADI) Accreditation, each owner and service dog must be performing their required obedience and task work to maintain a certified status.
